

Geary Sikich

NORWICH
UNIVERSITY™

Expect Challenge. Achieve Distinction.

Geary Sikich is a faculty member in the Norwich University Master of Science in Business Continuity Management program, and one of the foremost authorities on enterprise risk management in the world. A noted author, his publications include five books and over 175 articles relating to various business continuity issues. Geary is an executive level business strategy advisor to companies of the global 2000, international institutions, Federal, State and local governments. He is a coach, leader and internationally recognized speaker with twenty years plus of service in the financial, energy, healthcare, technology, manufacturing and critical infrastructure industries