
PROFILE

Irene More is a recognised expert in the Business Continuity Management (BCM) field with over 20 years of experience, having worked in various industries (financial, manufacturing, distribution, services and government agencies). Since 1988, she has coordinated BCM program in large organisations and since 1997, Ms More has provided BCM consulting and coaching services to a variety of customers in North America and Africa.

Ms More is one of the few professionals worldwide holding the Master Business Continuity Professional (MBCP) certification from DRI International (she had the CBCP certification since 1994). She also is a certified DRII instructor, teaching Business Continuity Management worldwide. Irene has also obtained in 2007 the MBCI certification, from the Business Continuity Institute (United Kingdom) and, in 2008, the BCCE Certification, from the Business Continuity Management Institute (Singapore).

Over the last few years, she also has developed BCM courses offered to all or adapted to specific groups such as auditors, US Credit Union managers and executives. In 2006, she has been invited by Sherbrooke University to develop and teach the first BCM course part of the Graduate Business Administration diploma on Business Governance.

Ms More has contributed to the development of her profession in several instances: director for the ISSA in Montréal for more than 10 years, secretary-treasurer for DRIE-Montréal more than 5 years, member of the DRI CANADA Certification Commission for 8 years. In 2006, she had to resign from the Board of Directors of DRI Canada because she had concluded two 3-year consecutive mandates. She has kept her commitment to DRI Canada as a member DRI Canada Award of Excellence Selection Committee since 2007.

Ms More is an experienced and enthusiastic speaker. She is regularly invited in North America, Europe, Asia and Africa to speak for diverse audiences on various subject such as BCM testing, Pandemic contingency planning, selling BCM to senior management, etc. She has developed over time the required communication skills for presenting to all types of audiences (technical staff, business representative, executives, etc.) in the private and public sectors.
